Highly Popular GCBAA Membership Directory Now Available for 2008

LINCOLN, Neb. (April 7, 2008) - The primary industry source for finding contact information for golf course builders and suppliers is being shipped to Golf Course Builders Association of America (GCBAA) members this month.

The GCBAA's 2008 Membership Directory contains a comprehensive list of the over 400 members of the organization including national and international builders and suppliers. The directory is neatly segregated into various categories to make it "user friendly."

Providing pertinent information for building or renovating a golf course, the directory also highlights all GCBAA members who have met the selective guidelines and requirements for GCBAA certification.

Another feature of the directory is a reference section that includes an equivalency chart (metric and non-metric weights and measures), a formulas chart and an estimations reference to calculate materials and costs for golf course renovations and building.

GCBAA members receive an initial 2008 Membership Directory free of charge and can purchase additional directories for $50 each. The directory is available to non-members for the purchase price of $100 by contacting the GCBAA office at (402) 476-4444 or e-mailing paul_foley@gcbaa.org.
